

Jim Wood, President & Owner, Maverick Express, Inc.

"Relocating to Battle Creek was like 'coming home' for us. Special thanks to BCU for their help in making our transition seamless."

Maverick Express began in 1995 as a home-based trucking operation with a couple of part-time employees, a cargo van and a rented straight truck. We quickly outgrew the basement and purchased a warehouse and office in a neighboring city. As our business continued to expand, we were faced with the option of re-engineering our facility or moving.

Happily, the decision was made to relocate to Battle Creek. There were three main reasons; the core of our customer base was located in or around Battle Creek, we already had property in Battle Creek, and Battle Creek Unlimited. BCU clearly understands that the needs of the community and the local businesses are intertwined and they do everything in their power to ensure that Battle Creek is a great place to live and do business.
